Gas and Oils

A co-operative association for the handling of tractor fuels and oils has been definitely formed in the Champion district. The company is to be known as the Public Petroleum Products Corporation of Champion, Ltd. It is the intention of the company also to operate a filling station for automobiles and trucks. At a meeting of the directors last Wednesday, a site for the plant was selected, and other details of organization attended to. The company expects to be in a position to fill orders for gasoline, distillate oils, and greases within a few days. Organization of this company was effected at a meeting in the Community Hall last Saturday. Directors were elected as follows: Mr. Clarence Davis, Mr. Frank Smith, Mr. H. Higgins and Mr. Louis Miller. Mr. George A. MacKenzie of the Public Petroleum Corporation of Winnipeg was present, as well as Mr. J. Johannsen, of Woolford, Alberta and Mr. T. S. Gregson, the Winnipeg company's organizer.

On Wednesday night Mr. Gregson and some of the directors of the Champion company addressed a meeting at Reid Hill, where a good deal of enthusiasm in the local company was aroused. It is expected that many of the farmers of that district will participate in the local company.

Lethbridge Head
I.H.C. Honored

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Depue were among the guests at the celebration of the 21st anniversary of the connection of R. W. Greenway, manager of the Lethbridge branch, with the I.H.C., which occurred on Saturday, March 29th. There were seventy-five guests in attendance and presentations were made to Mr. Greenway and two other members of the staff.

Mrs. Sayles Leaves For Colorado

Mrs. E. Sayles who has resided with her daughter, Mrs. A. W. Jopling for the past three years, left on Friday morning for Grand Junction, Colorado. Many friends here will regret her departure. She was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Mast, who has spent the winter in Calgary, and is returning to Grand Junction.

W. I. Meeting

Champion W.I. meets April 8, at 2:30 p.m., at Mrs. W. A. Summers' Roll call--agricultural hints. District conference report by our delegate, Mrs. D. Chamberlain. Discussion on community fair exhibit led by Mrs. O. Harper. Refreshment convenor Mrs. Bond.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. Berger wishes to thank the Champion Women's Institute for the lovely flowers sent in while at the Nanton hospital.

There are 3,865 things that might cause the queer rattle in your car, but it always takes $18.50 to make the right one confess.

Philpotts--Nielsens

Farewell

Prior to their departure for Peace River the families of W. S. Philpott and Geo. Nielsen were the recipients of farewell attention from friends in the district with whom they were associated for many years. On Wednesday, March 26th, the Amity Club met at the home of Mr. W. R. McRae, where Mrs. Philpott was presented with a book and Mrs. Nielsen with salt and pepper shakers. On Saturday afternoon despite a raging snowstorm a large number from town and country gathered in the church to present Miss Lois Philpott with a beautiful gift. Mrs. W. R. McRae made the presentation, referring to Miss Philpott's long connection with the telephone service and her unfailing courtesy to the public. A short program and refreshments ended a very pleasant afternoon.

Magician Makes Good Impression

The Bert Johnson company made a very favorable impression in three nights' engagement here last week. A meagre house on the first night was followed by a filled hall, and had it not been for the storm on Saturday night there would have been an overflow house. As a magician Mr. Johnson is well in the artistic class and the balance of his company proved versatile and highly entertaining. No better road show has made its appearance here.

Easter Tea
On L.A. Program

An Easter tea will be held by the Ladies' Aid in the church on Saturday, April 19th. Flowers, slips, place handkerchiefs, candy, etc., will be offered for sale. Tea will be served during the afternoon.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. Boyd wishes to thank the many friends for their kindness during her illness. Also the Ladies' Aid, W.I., B.P.O.E., and the O.O.R.P. for the beautiful flowers.

Mrs. Geo. Stoddart
Guest of Honor

Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Orr were joint hostesses at a tea in the home of Mrs. Orr on Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Geo. Stoddart of Calgary, who had been a visitor in town for some days.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. J. Vanbesien wishes to thank the many friends who called to see her at the Holy Cross hospital, and also the C.W.I. and the Elks for beautiful flowers.

Return From California

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Clever visited in town last Saturday en route from California to Calgary. The trip was made by auto and by the coast route, which Mr. Clever describes as a wonderfully attractive trip.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The new Liberal leader has a great opportunity before him as he assumes leadership of a party which has almost disappeared in provincial affairs. While there is no intention of suggesting this state of things was due to inefficient leadership, the future should hold better prospects for both the old parties.

The United States tariff, on which adjustment was begun to afford relief to the farmers, has been tinkered with until it would be hard to say just whether farmers or manufacturers will be the greatest beneficiaries.

Practically a cartload of bulls will represent the McDougall herd at the Calgary spring stock show and sale. While there is no indication of suggesting that every farmer could afford short-horns to equal those of McDougall Bros., there would appear to be a considerable opportunity along the line of improving the small number of cattle kept on the average farm. Why should not these be of the very best instead of the indifferent animals so often in evidence?

While Canada is making an effort to prevent shipment of liquor from Canadian territory to the States, according to estimates by U.S. writers, only 5 per cent of the supply has been secured from this country in the past so that closing up this avenue of supply will not go very far in assisting enforcement.

Town gardeners are beginning to prepare for the season's operations, which seems to increase slightly in volume year by year since the very dry seasons have ceased, particularly where flowers and flowering shrubs are concerned. With tree planting going steadily ahead the town will soon be decidedly more attractive in appearance. A good groove of trees would cover a multitude of sins.

NEWS NOTES

Two unusual motor vehicles were recently built in England by special order. One was a travelling bathroom, ordered by an Indian Prince. Another was a motor church, built to the specification of a Christian missionary society.

An ingenious traffic signal is being tried out in Paris, whereby a person wishes to cross the street can press a signal halting all automobile traffic. The buttons are placed on either side of the street on the electric lamp poles. The signal remains lighted 15 seconds, in which the pedestrian must scurry across the street. To avoid tying up traffic pedestrians are automatically prevented from holding up the vehicular flow for more than a certain period.

Women Would Place
Mrs. McKinney's Portrait
In Legislative Building

The women of the province are full of enthusiasm over their portrait of Mrs. McKinney painted and presented to the Legislative Building at Edmonton, and hope to have this accomplished before the end of this year. Mrs. McKinney has been chosen for this honor on account of the fact that she was the first woman to be elected to the Legislative Assembly in the British Empire, when in 1917 she was chosen to represent the constituency of Claveshorn.

Contributions, big or little, will be appreciated and acknowledged by the Treasurer, Mrs. Wilbur Horner, 815-19th Avenue West, Calgary.

Lutheran Church Services

The Lutheran Church still preaches the Gospel of Christ and His Word. The Lutheran services will be held at the Lord's will, at the Lutheran parsonage on Sunday, April 13th, at 11:00 a.m. Sunday School after services.

You are heartily invited to attend and to bring your friends.

There's "Gold" In The Golden Rule

A heading in a business magazine reads: "There's Gold In The Golden Rule" and the accompanying article proves it. There is no doubt that following the Golden Rule in business as well as out of it, in the long run will be more profitable than otherwise, and by this we mean materially profitable. There is a principle recognized by modern business that the business man, to be permanently successful, must contribute to the profit and welfare of those who deal with him, those from whom he buys as well as those to whom he sells. And in a measure, this is recognition of the Golden Rule.

But here comes the rub. Is the Golden Rule observed, even to such a limited extent, for its "gold"?—which may be moral from a social and economic viewpoint, but is it in the interest of the business man to be so expedient, the more profitably? Are we to "do unto others" from pure delight in the doing, or because we wish to have them do the same to us? The real beauty, aim, force, and adventure of the Golden Rule lie in our attitude toward it. Its efficacy is in itself and in what prompts us to practice it.

Just to follow the Golden Rule because there is "gold in it," would be much the same as being honest because it is the "best policy." Ne'er the impulse would rate high among the things considered admirable. To follow the Golden Rule because it charts the inherently right course in our dealings with our fellows and because we wish to be and do right, is in my judgment, the true spirit of the Golden Rule.

It is the desire to follow the Golden Rule that motivates us to do the "gold in it" is—well, not so much we would care to boast about. The greatest profit which comes from living the Golden Rule cannot be set down in dollars and cents.

Throughout Western Canada our people have very largely accepted and adopted the principles of co-operation. In our business, in our economic relations and business, it is not quite so generally accepted and acted upon in other community relationships. The question, therefore, naturally arises: Has this acceptance of one of the principles found in the Golden Rule resulted from a belief that "there's gold in it," rather than from a conviction that co-operation is indeed the better way for all concerned? Have we established, and are we maintaining, our great co-operative movement not only on a dollar and cents basis, or are a majority of our people earnestly striving to, in this way, make some contribution to the welfare of others?

Many fine and lofty sentiments—the sentiments of the Golden Rule, have been expressed by the leaders of our country. But the fact is that scores of men and women have joined co-operative organizations not because they felt that they themselves would reap any particular benefits, but because they felt such organizations would be the means of benefiting others and the country as a whole. They are practising the Golden Rule because they believe it to be right, not because there may be some "gold" in it for them.

And if co-operation is to live and continue as a vital force in the life and activities of this country, it is to grow and develop as a great compelling influence and force, not only in an economic sense but in our community life. It must be through a general acceptance of the view, and this can only be in everyday life, that self-sacrifice is wrong and unprofitable, that self-interest and enjoyment of the fruits of others as well as for themselves, that the Golden Rule is to be practised not because there is "gold in it" for us, but because it is the only correct rule by which to measure our lives and acts; that we must be honest with each other, not because it is "the best policy" but because it is right. If we expect others to accord honest and co-operative treatment to us, we must be honest and practise the honesty of conviction entertained by others.

True co-operation is founded on the Golden Rule. It is its underlying principle. It is the only foundation upon which our great co-operative organizations can safely build, not because there is "gold" in it for anybody, but because it is the only safe rule for human conduct and intercourse.

Wheat Sales Affected

Eating Habits Of Those Who Desire Slenderness, Is Held Responsible

The modern feminine desire for slenderness, according to Professor James L. Boyce, of Cornell University, has altered the consumption of bread, butter, etc., and considerably affected the wheat sales of the world.

Doctors, nurses, schools and even beauty parlors have helped to bring about these changes, the professor said in an address recently. Meat consumption has also declined, those in search of necessary vitamins preferring oranges, grapefruit, pineapples, lettuce, tomatoes and cantaloupes.

"All these changes in customers' food habits can be considered as market developments," Professor Boyce said. "The consumer is the most important of the people concerned with marketing."

To Study British Methods

Chinese Officers Will Learn How "Big Time" Navy Is Run

Twenty Chinese naval officers and cadets have gone to Great Britain to study British methods of running a navy.

They are making the trip at the invitation of the British Government, and will remain about two years.

The officers in the party expect to attend Greenwich Naval Academy and take the same course in tactics as British students. The cadets, however, must first spend some time on various naval vessels to learn the rudiments of naval hygiene.

Interesting Records

Among the most valuable records in the Public Record Office of England, are the pipe rolls, a statement of the King's income and expenditures, so called because they are rolled in the shape of pipes. They date back to 1131 and were not discontinued until 1833.

Apple Trees For Prairie Farms

Sixteen Varieties Of Apples Found Suitable For The West

After fifteen years of fruit planting, the experimental work of the Dominion Department of Agriculture has developed sixteen varieties of apple trees suited to the climatic conditions of the Prairie Provinces. Of these sixteen, three have been graded "very good" and two "good." Horticultural experts point out, however, that it will take several more tree generations to evolve the ideal species. Prairie farmers can help in this work by growing seed at the Experimental Station at Morden, Manitoba, for planting in their own gardens.

DO YOU FEAR A HEARTY MEAL?

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Will Tone Up Your Stomach Making Men Strong

Are you afraid of meal-times? Does eating distress you? Would you rather go without food? That is the natural result of a lack of self-indulgence. There can be no perfect digestion—hence no enjoyment of the meal—unless the blood is rich blood. This paper blood is necessary to tone up your stomach and to provide for properly digesting the meal.

Many so-called stomach tonics are really nothing but sugar water. That is a mistake—nature should do that work and if nature does not do it, then we must do it. Take up your stomach by driving on the colon, that is in the large intestine. Make the blood rich blood. As a farmer's wife, with three little girls, it was almost impossible to get the children to eat their meal through my work. I suffered so I was actually afraid of meal time. A friend of mine recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I had lost weight in every being well again, I still had a desire to eat. I took them. Gradually the dizziness and headaches left me. My appetite was restored and I began to eat my meals. I gained in weight and my health in general was better. I am now a strong woman, owe much to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for they relieved me of all my misery.

You can get these pills from any druggist or from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

New Species Of Whitefish

Newly Discovered Member Of Flaxy Tribe Found In Manitoba

Discovery of a new species of whitefish in Clear Lake, Manitoba, is announced by A. Bakjord of Manitoba University. The new species has been named Coon Lake whitefish in honor of Dr. C. H. O'Donnell, formerly of the faculty of Manitoba University. The newly-discovered fish is common in Clear Lake. It lives at a great depth during the summer, coming to the surface only in the spawning season.

The officers in the party expect to attend Greenwich Naval Academy and take the same course in tactics as British students. The cadets, however, must first spend some time on various naval vessels to learn the rudiments of naval hygiene.

Jim replied as he put a generous slice of shortcake on Grandma's plate: "You're right. The committee thought the fireworks were a good idea, so I agreed, and took up some colors for the show. They got two dollars out of me, but I didn't intend to miss the show, I tell you what. Grandma you needn't tell me, either. I'll take you down in the car soon as I get home."

"My soul!" breathed Grandma. "I haven't been out in the evening since I don't know when. I do know that Charman would say, or the doctor either, but," recklessly, "I'm going to do it!"

"It's no good left over, I would be a shame to waste it. Charman made it after Emmy Bascom's recipe, and it's worth a little next time. I'll stop at the grocery store on the way home. I must be fortified if I'm going gallivanting all the evening. I haven't got any green hat," she added with a twinkle, "but I'll wear my Sunday bonnet, and put Grandma's old shawl over my coat, so you won't feel ashamed of your company. That shawl came from China, and a smart householder who stopped in once for a skein of embroidery silk, offered me three hundred dollars for it when she saw it hanging over my chair."

Jim replied expressively as he arose to clear the table.

"I'd like to see that shawl I'd refuse to give up for birth!"

"So would I," agreed Grandma, "but Charman was mad at the woman for even offering it. She's got the Davis pride. You can set the dishes in the sink, Jimmy; and I'll go to the kitchen and get the clothes in the north room. There's that dog again with another bone! I'd like to see where he's planning to put it, but there isn't time. It looks as if Gyp was something of a miser; but at any rate, he won't be dependent on his relations in his old age! Here, Jimmy, lend me a hand. I'll all get dressed."

"So'm I!" said Jim, "going out with a new girl this way?"

Grandma blushed. "I'm not a girl any more," she said, "but I'm still a girl at the door of the north room. I'll depart toward the kitchen." Charman said to leave the dishes in the sink; but you'd better set that pat' butter in the icebox, or we'll have to have a gift. Maybe I'll be able to get tomorrow to pay for it; but what's the use of living if you aren't ready once in a dog's age?"

"No use at all," grimed Jim, "and we'll have to eat out of the same plates we've just used for the last year and a half. I'll go to the town red. Take your time about getting ready, Grandma. There's not a bit of hurry."

He was still in the kitchen when the old lady appeared at the door again.

"My sakes! you've washed all those dishes!" she exclaimed, "an' the dish towel, too. You'll make some woman a good husband, Jimmy. I'll put it in the wash."

"Aren't you ashamed, vampy, a young feller this way?" Jim hanted, as he wiped his hands on the robe. "Here, you hang onto that towel, and I'll get you some door key. What's I'll do with that door key, Grandma? That's it along?"

"You put it on the door mat, just where anybody who comes to the house will look for it," she responded whimsically. "It's a lovely evening, isn't it? I wouldn't mind riding a little way before the fireworks, if we've got time."

"Twenty of time. We'll run round till the Bascoms so you can see Emmy's new windows. They look corking."

Grandma sighed. There it was again—the thing that worried her this nice boy. He couldn't see that those big panes of glass no more fit the old Bascom house than she herself would fit that cheap new bungalow by the station.

"I don't want to see Emmy's wife, but she repented, and the entire started."

"I don't think she's been to the old house; but I'll admire to ride round the cemetery till it's time for the show. I haven't seen the monument that Duncan Pritchard made for her, with the drearily-funeral bunting four wives. Jimmy, I suppose if he'd foreseen how things were going he could have had 'em engraved on one stone, and saved a sight."

"If he's not careful," Jim responded soberly, "he'll have to invest in a bigger lot or be crowded out himself when his turn comes. They say he's making up to the Dowdmore, over town."

"My stars!" cried Grandma. "So you must be thirty years younger than Edgar Purdie, and has got six children!"

"I'm not!" said the old lady, trying her best to look severe, "that you're making light of serious things, Jim."

"Good land, no! I can see well enough from here, but I thought I'd tell you what I saw in the store."

"The deacon laid his Sarah. Want to get out?"

"Good land, no! I can see well enough from here, but I thought I'd tell you what I saw in the store."

"The deacon always puts on something, the first one was, 'The price of a good woman is above rubies,' though every one in town had begun to say, 'The price of a woman is below rubies,' for the minister that Edward How prescribes in Emma's last sickness. For his second (she was Carrie Hopkins, from over Temptation way, and could sit up as much trouble at a parish meeting as any woman down a rabbit hole into the vestry), he put 'Blessed are peacemakers.' And when Eva, his third, was taken without leaving a friend in Wickfield because of her sharp tongue, he had engraved for her, 'A good name is better than precious ointment.' I declare, Jim, I've been curious to know what he'd say, 'or Sarah. They fought like cats and dogs."

"I'll alay that curiously in two minutes," grimed Jim, "so he might not be around to eat of grass in the Purdie lot. He was shamed out of his head soberly when he returned and said: 'It looks to me, Grandma, as it the deacon had run out of Scripture verse and taken to the poets.' He never did say that he'd say, 'or Sarah. They fought like cats and dogs.'
